

Trade Union Bill

Poll

29/10/2015

Prepared on behalf of Unite the Union

Methodology

Fieldwork Dates

27th – 28rd October 2015

Data Collection Method

The survey was conducted via online panel. Invitations to complete surveys were sent out to members of the panel. Differential response rates from different demographic groups were taken into account.

Population Sampled

All residents aged 18+ in Great Britain

Sample Size

1,532

Data Weighting

Data were weighted to the profile of all Great British adults aged 18+. Data were weighted by age, sex, region, household income, education and past vote. Targets for the weighted data were derived from Office for National Statistics 2011 Census data and the results of the 2015 General Election.

Margin of Error

Because only a sample of the full population was interviewed, all results are subject to margin of error, meaning that not all differences are statistically significant. For example, in a question where 50% (the worst case scenario as far as margin of error is concerned) gave a particular answer, with a sample of 1,532 it is 95% certain that the 'true' value will fall within the range of 2.5% from the sample result. Subsamples from the cross-breaks will be subject to higher margin of error, conclusions drawn from crossbreaks with very small sub-samples should be treated with caution.

Question presentation

All data tables shown in full below, in order and wording put to respondents, including but not limited to all tables relating to published data and all relevant tables preceding them. Tables for demographic questions might not be included but these should be clear from the cross-breaks on published tables. In all questions where the responses are a list of parties, names or statements, these will typically have been displayed to respondents in a randomising order. The only questions which would not have had randomising responses would be those in which there was a natural order to maintain – e.g. a scale from “strongly agree” to “strongly disagree”, a list of numbers from 0 to 10 or questions which had factual rather than opinion-related answers such as demographic information. “Other”, “Don't know” and “Refused” responses are not randomised.

Not all questions will have necessarily been asked to all respondents – this is because they may be follow-on questions from previous questions or only appropriate to certain demographic groups. Lower response counts should make clear where this has occurred.

Data were analysed and weighted by Survation (Director of Research – Patrick Briône).

Q33. Normal weightings

Q33. The Trade Union Bill, introduced by the government in July 2015, sets out to amend the Trade Union and Labour Relations Act 1992 in a number of ways, including setting out requirements for a minimum threshold of 50% turnout in all industrial action ballots, specifying the timing and duration of industrial action and replacing the current arrangements for a union member to contribute to a union's political fund.

Which of the following aspects of the Trade Union Bill do you think will have the greatest impact on worker's rights to strike against unfair pay, conditions or treatment?

Q34. Normal weightings

Q34. Currently, Trade Unions can only ballot their members regarding potential industrial action by physical post. An alternative to physical post for Trade Unions ballots would be "Secure Workplace Balloting".

Opponents say that these ballots can be impractical at firms where employees work a variety of shift patterns or over multiple sites. Supporters say that these ballots allow for workers to vote safely and secretly in their place of work as the ballots would be run and scrutinised independently.
